Bang Bang Tofu

Author: Lindsay Total Time: 35 minutes Yield: 4 servings 1x

Easy dinner alert! Crispy, sticky, beautiful bang bang tofu piled on top of steamy rice. So easy and SO good!

INGREDIENTS

UNITS US M SCALE 1/2x 1x 2x

Crispy Tofu:

- 1 block extra firm tofu (I highly recommend the high protein tofu from Trader Joe's - see notes)
- 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon olive oil or avocado oil

Bang Bang Sauce:

- 1/2 cup mayo
- 1/2 cup sweet chili sauce
- 1/2 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 clove garlic, grated
- sesame seeds and/or green onions for garnish

For Serving:

- 1-2 cups cooked rice
- 12 ounces green beans, steamed or sautéed

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Prep Tofu: Pull the tofu into craggly, bite-sized chunks with your hands.
2. Coat Tofu: Toss the tofu chunks with the cornstarch, garlic powder, paprika, and salt to coat (I find it easiest to use my hands). Toss again with the soy sauce and oil to coat.
3. Air Fry Tofu: Air fry the tofu at 350 for 10 minutes. Shake or stir, then air fry for another 5 minutes at 375, or until the tofu is crispy and golden.
4. Make Sauce: Whisk the sauce ingredients together.
5. Sauce Tofu: Place the crisped tofu in a skillet over medium high heat. Add ¼ cup of sauce and stir-fry for 2-3 minutes, until the tofu is coated and caramelized. The sauce will melt into a glaze-like consistency on the tofu. If you want, you can repeat this process a few times to build flavor.
6. Serve: The tofu should already be sticky and delicious. Plate over rice, and drizzle or dollop the remaining sauce over the tofu (you can add a tablespoon or two of water to the sauce to thin it out, if you'd like). Top with sesame seeds or green onions! I always serve this with green beans. YUM.

NOTES

In my experience, the high protein tofu from Trader Joe's does not need pressing (!!) which is why I love it! It comes right out of the package pretty dry to begin with – I just blot the outside dry. However, if you're using a different brand or type of tofu, you'll want to wrap it in a clean towel and press it several times to remove excess moisture.
